COVID-19 PARTNER CALL // MEETING TALKING POINTS

To ensure you receive future invites and any email updates issued, please send me an email with your name, title, agency/organization, email address and phone number/s. My email is: mary.lilly@maryland.gov.

Dr. Lowry -

We are all adapting as directives and guidance are issued not only at the county and state levels, but also from the federal level, as well. And we don't expect the most recent announcements to be the end of change.

To help our county, the biggest role the health department has is continual education and determining facts surrounding confirmed cases.

A call-center has been in place since Friday, and the volume of calls is increasing with every new restriction placed on our daily lives in order to help curtail the spread of COVID-19.

To date, Charles County has 1 presumptive case as which was released to the public last Friday by Joint Base Andrews.

The governor permits that information related to confirmed cases can be referenced by: gender, decade of age, travel-related or not and if underlying conditions exist. This case was a female in her 50's; travel-related; underlying conditions exist. An extensive case investigation including contact tracing was initiated by the health department.

Melanie Gardiner, Infectious Disease Supervisor

The Health Dept call center is open and running 8am-5pm M-F; we are training additional staff to assist with this effort and constantly evaluating staff resources should we be faced with the need to expand the hours of operation.

If someone has health questions relating to possible COVID-19, you can call: 301.609.6717 and speak with a nurse. A questionnaire, specific to determine if they meet the criteria for testing, will be run through by a nurse.

Keep in mind, if the person meets the criteria to be tested, a doctor will have issued a testing slip and they will be directed to a location that will take a collection of samples. Those samples are then sent to the state of Maryland laboratory and then onto the CDC for final confirmation.

To aid in the testing efforts, there are some local labs that can run the test. Coordination of receiving testing results is being worked out.

If you have heard that there are rapid tests – know that rapid testing does not exist for this virus at this time.

Once someone has been confirmed, the infectious disease department begins contact tracing, investigation and surveillance. We talk with the case to find out where they have been, when they were there, who they came in contact with, etc. Then we contact all of those people and go through the questionnaire and determine the next course of action – self-monitor; isolation; quarantine for a minimum of 14 days or longer; testing, etc.

Please know, that it is in everyone's best interest to protect the healthcare workers and first responders, along with everyone in our community. With that, guidance and questionnaires have been shared with the court system, sheriff's office, first responders and other community agencies.

AMBER STARN, EPIDEMIOLOGIST

Currently in Maryland, there are 37 cases of COVID-19. One of those cases is a Charles County resident. At this time, there is no evidence of widespread community transmission. Help us to keep it that way.

In the absence of prevention measures and treatment options and because this is a novel virus with limited research, the best means to mitigate the spread of the virus is through well-established public health interventions such as social distancing and quarantine/isolation measures.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has issued guidance for "community mitigation strategies" to limit the spread of COVID-19, which include recommendations for "social distancing"—a term that we use in public health to refer to a conscious effort to reduce close contact between people and hopefully stymie community transmission of the virus.

These are not new concepts. They have been used for centuries to reduce the spread of disease. Organized institutional responses to disease control really began during the plague epidemic of 14th century. Medicine was impotent against plague; the only way to escape infection was to avoid contact with infected persons and contaminated objects. More recently, during the 2003 pandemic of severe acute respiratory syndrome or SARS, the use of quarantine, border controls, contact tracing, and surveillance proved effective in containing the global threat in just over 3 months.

I am sure that many of you have heard the phrase "flatten the curve" over the last few days. It has now become a hashtag on social media. It is the concept that if we control the spread of the disease through decreased public exposure, then we can avoid a spike in cases that would bombard our healthcare system. Think back to the example that I gave last Monday. In the 1918 flu pandemic, the cities of Philadelphia and St Louis took two very different approaches. Philadelphia did not cancel gatherings including a World War 1 parade, whereas, St Louis canceled group events including church services and closed the schools. St Louis was able to maintain a consistent level of flu cases and avoid a large peak of cases like the city of Philadelphia. They were able to “flatten the curve.” Because of these measures, the flu death rate in St Louis was 347 per 100,000 compared to 719 per 100,000 in Philadelphia.

The better that people comply with social distancing measures, the more we can flatten the curve. This will stop the transmission of disease within the community and help to protect those in our vulnerable populations. If kids are out of school, they can’t bring the virus home to their grandparents or siblings with a chronic health condition. That is why the governor has taken some important and unprecedented measures in the last week to help mitigate the spread of COVID-19 and to reduce the likelihood of widespread community transmission. We need to reduce opportunities for congregate settings. That is why the Governor has issued the closing of schools, casinos, racetracks, restaurants, bars, and large gatherings greater than 50 people, movie theaters, and gyms by 5 pm today. Some drive thru, carry outs, and food delivery services will remain open. Grocery stores and pharmacies will remain open. We would like to thank the hospital and long term care facilities who have made restrictions to their visitor policies and increased screening of employees and visitors to protect our most vulnerable.

We realize that this is an inconvenience to people, but it doesn’t work unless people take it seriously. While the schools are closed, it is important to stay home and avoid contact with other people. It is not a time to go to movies, to hang out at the mall, to go jump at Skyzone, or to go to the theater. We should be cognizant of social distancing in public and try to maintain 6 feet of distance between us and others.

Now is the time to cancel get-togethers. Dating, family visits, house parties, play dates should all be postponed or held virtually if possible. We know that there are personal situations where you must go out for work, for supplies, or to help someone else in need. In those cases, we ask that you take precautions to keep your distance from others, and wash your hands frequently. Wash them when you enter and exit a building if you can. Wash them when you use the restroom. Wash them when you are going to eat. And when you think that you have initiated enough hand washing, do it some more. If you develop a fever or cough, don’t go out unless it is absolutely necessary or to seek medical care.

Our messaging over the next week will include information on how to successfully implement social distancing, and we ask as our community partners to help us get that word out.

LINDA WARREN, PUBLIC INFORMATION OFFICER / COMMUNICATIONS/MEDIA EFFORTS

We continue to be diligent in updating our website and providing links to the state health department and the CDC website which gives you the latest information available.

Public service announcements will appear in the MARYLAND INDEPENDENT; videos by key staff members will be posted once a week on Wednesdays.

The PIOs for all local response agencies are in regular communication to be sure we are providing a clear and consistent message across the board.

All of the partners, agencies and organizations on this call have been assigned to a sector group, i.e., Schools & Childcare, Healthcare Facilities, Healthcare Professionals, Government, Community & Faith-Based Organizations, Business & Employers, First Responders, Homeless.

Going forward, Monday's at 4pm will be a call-in update given by the Health Department. On Wednesdays and Fridays, emails will be sent out to each sector group identified above. So be sure to get your name to Mary Lilly to be included as she mentioned at the beginning of the call. Her email is: mary.lilly@maryland.gov.

LISA LASCHALT, EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS AND RESPONSE ACTIVITIES

We continue to work alongside our response partners to best plan for this evolving event facing the nation and now, the state of emergency placed on Charles County.

Evolving events bring about adaptability, sharing of resources, flexibility, clear and constant communication. We are all faced with a never-ending look at how we are doing things; what can we do better; and shifting priorities as soon as the need arises. We all plan for the worst and hope for the best in situations like these.

We are evaluating and will share resources available with our response partners to be able to conduct various tasks throughout the response effort.

We are currently evaluating our total resource needs and, where gaps are identified, will determine how to best fill them moving forward.
